Peerless Cooking Stove.

HEAR what the Boston Journal says of this superior article:

Among the peculiar merits claimed for this stove is the complete ventilation and even temperature of the oven, making it a roasting rather than a baking oven, which is secured by a peculiarly constructed air-chamber, which heats the air as it passes down behind the fire pot and into the oven, causing the oven to bake or roast perfectly and evenly, a great desideratum with a careful housewife: the perfect control which can be kept over the fire, and its cleanliness. This stove works equally well with coal or wood. These stoves are of different sizes, and are made plain or with an extension top, the latter being made with a large reservoir for hot water on the top and a warming closet underneath. Those of our readers who would like to keep up with the times would do well to call and examine this "Peerless stove." Sole agent in Newport, WM. H. BLISS.

Dr. William Smith's

DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE.

It contains OVER ONE THOUSAND closely printed, double column, octavo pages, from new electrotype plates, on good paper, and is appropriately illustrated with over TWO HUNDRED engravings on STEEL and WOOD, and a series of fine authentic maps.

It is highly commended by all learned and eminent men, and by the press generally, throughout the country, and is the best book of its kind in the English language.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

Owing to the unprecedented popularity of this work, a small English abridgement adapted to juvenile readers, in duodecimo form, of about 600 pages, has been reprinted by another firm in larger type, and spread over 800 octavo pages, evidently by making a book larger than its original—to give the impression that it is our edition. To those who desire this juvenile edition, we will, early in March, furnish the English work, far superior to the American, at $2.50 per copy. Send for circular giving full particulars.

Widow Brown's Oil Well.

—o—

A TALE OF PETROLEUM.

—o—

Mrs. Anastasia Brown, better known as the Widow Brown, owned and cultivated a small farm of ten acres in a little Pennsylvania town. The humble homestead corresponded in size to the farm, being a one story cottage, comprising but three rooms. The land was not very productive, but Mrs. Brown had only herself to provide for, and though her income would hardly warrant her in living luxuriously, on the other hand there was no danger of the alms house. On the whole the widow might be considered comfortably provided for, though her farm and house together would have been dear at a thousand dollars.

But Mrs. Anastasia was not contented. She was an ambitious woman, and bent on bettering herself if the opportunity ever presented itself. To a lady under her circumstances a second marriage with an eligible party seemed to be the readiest road to higher station. But the widow's personal advantages were hardly of a character to inspire very lively hopes in that direction. She was tall and gaunt, and her share of the perishable but rather desirable gift of beauty had been below the average. Besides, she was now forty five, and therefore of rather doubtful juvenility.

It chanced that the wealthiest man in town was a certain Squire Ebenezer Pogram, who, in addition to an excellent farm of three hundred acres, had a comfortable sum invested in stocks and bonds. He was a widower, and in the market. His wife would be the foremost lady in the village. For this position there was more than one aspirant, but among them all none apparently stood so poor a chance as Mrs. Anastasia Brown. But none the less the widow laid her plans to capture the citadel, and circumstances, aided by her own shrewdness, assisted her to accomplish it.

About this time the petroleum fever was at its height. There was a wild excitement general not only in the districts where petroleum had been discovered, but speculation was rife in the commercial capital, and companies with flaming prospectuses were daily springing into existence. Farms which would have been considered dear at twenty dollars an acre, all at once enhanced in value fifty, or even an hundred fold, and the owners, who had hitherto found it difficult to earn a scanty subsistence, all at once found themselves rich beyond their wildest dreams.

Among those who cherished hopes of wealth from this source was Squire Pogram. He saw no reason why his own acres might not prove to be flowing with oil, and he had instituted some preliminary investigations which had only resulted in disappointment. Though already a man of abundant means, he was inclined to be grasping, and had no objection to doubling or trebling his present property. In fact, the love of money was the ruling passion with the Squire, and this was not unknown to his townsmen.

Mrs. Brown, aware of this fact, determined upon a coup d'etat, if we may so call it, with a view of taking by assault the hand of the Squire—for his heart she cared little.

One morning the expressman brought to Mrs. Brown's cottage a keg, which was evidently full of some liquid.

"Fifty cents, widder," he said, as he lugged it into the back room, and deposited it in the corner. "It's rather hefty."

"Yes," said the widow, "molasses is heavier'n most anything else."

"Molasses, is it? Wall, now, I reckon it'll take you a mighty long time to use up a keg full of molasses."

"I'm fond of it," said the widow, shortly.

"Yes, but there ain't but one on ye."

"I don't know but I shall take a boarder or two if I can get them," said Mrs. Brown, improvising a fib on the spur of the moment.

"Then you'll have to piece out your house, I reckon."

The widow was glad when the expressman with his intrusive curiosity was gone. In the country it is very common to comment with the utmost freedom upon the plans and proceedings of one's neighbors, and this sometimes has its disadvantages.

The widow did not open the keg till the next day. Then, instead of molasses, she found the contents to be petroleum oil. It might have been supposed that the substitution would have proved vexatious, but the widow took it very coolly. She managed to get the keg down the cellar stairs, where she locked it up in a closet. First, however, she filled a common water pail with the precious liquid, and going to the well deliberately poured it down. After this rather singular proceeding, she looked carefully up the road until she saw a horse and buggy approaching, which she well knew belonged to Squire Pogram, who always came over the road about that time, to visit a small house which he was building for tenants a mile beyond.

The Squire was just abreast of the cottage, when the widow ran out and hailed him.

"O, Squire Pogram," she said, "won't you just drive into the yard a minute? The water in my well tastes so strangely. I do believe it's petroleum."

Petroleum! The Squire pricked up his ears, and made all haste to do as requested.

"You don't say so, widder!" he exclaimed, "when did you notice it first?"

"I didn't really notice it much till to day," said Mrs. Brown. "It might have tasted a little queer maybe, but to day it's very strong."

"Let me taste," said the Squire. "I can tell if it's that, or something else. It may be some dead critter that's got drowned in the well and poisoned the water."

"O, I hope not," said the widow in a tone of alarm. "I wouldn't have my well spoiled for a good deal."

"Except by petroleum," suggested the Squire. "I s'pose you'd be reconciled to that."

"Well, yes," owned the widow, "I wouldn't mind that."

By this time they had reached the well, and the Squire had already commenced lowering the bucket.

The widow was quite confident of the result, the oil having been so recently poured in. Still she felt a momentary alarm lest it had become so diffused that the portion of water drawn up would show scant traces of admixture. But when the bucket came again to the top, she was reassured. On the surface of the water was a coating of oil. That was clear enough.

The Squire looked at it eagerly. His recent experiments qualified him to judge in the matter. He was silent a moment.

"Well, Squire Pogram, what do you think?" asked Mrs. Brown eagerly.

"I do believe you're right, widder," said the Squire. "I'm inclined to the opinion that it's genuine petroleum."

"You don't say so, Squire! Well, I'm in luck for once in a way."

"I ain't certain. Suppose you give me a dipper, and I'll taste on 't."

The dipper was brought, and Squire Pogram did taste. The taste produced some contortions of the face, for petroleum oil as a beverage can scarcely be regarded as pleasant, even when largely diluted with fresh well water.

"Well, Squire?"

"Mrs. Brown, there ain't a doubt of it. There's a petroleum spring on your farm, and it has broken out in your well."

"Land sakes, Squire who would have thought it! And there ain't another petroleum well in town?"

"No, that is, none has appeared yet, though I have reason to think some may be found on my farm."

"It's so unexpected Squire," said the widow meditatively. "I really don't know what to do about it. What would you advise? You've always been a friend, and I can depend on your advice."

"Well" said the Squire clearing his throat, and speaking in a cautious tone, "I think I'd sell the farm."

"Sell the farm!" ejaculated the widow.

"Yes," continued her adviser, more confidently. "Being a lone woman, you can't sink wells, and work the petroleum yourself."

"But, Squire Pogram, I'd ought to get the benefit of it."

Certainly, the farm is worth more than it was. I shouldn't mind givin' two, well, three thousand dollars for it, and that is more'n three times what it would have fetched before."

"I don't hardly think I want to sell it for that, Squire. I get my livin' off it."

"Yes, widder, but consider what would be the interest of three thousand dollars invested in gov'ment bonds—seven thirties, for instance. Why, it would be more'n two hundred dollars a year."

"Yes, Squire, but that would'nt hardly support me."

"I'll tell you what, widder, I'll give you the three thousand dollars, and you shall live in the house, rent free as long as you choose. Come, that's sayin' fair, isn't it?"

"On the whole, Squire, said the wiley widow, "I don't think I'll decide just yet. Seems to me the farm ought to bring more'n three thousand dollars. I'm much obliged to you for your friendly offer, but I guess I'd better take time to consider, and perhaps consult some other friends."

"Widder," said Squire Pogram, feeling that the rich prize was in danger of slipping from his grasp, "I'll tell ye what, I know it's foolish, but, as you're an old friend, I won't mind sayin' four thousand dollars. It may be my loss, but it'll be your gain."

"I'm sure you're very kind, Squire Pogram, and I hope I'm properly grateful for your kind interest, but I hope you won't be offended if I don't decide jest yet. I think I'd better go and see lawyer Norcross."

"Don't go and see him whatever you do," said Squire Pogram hastily, for he feared that the lawyer would over-bid him. "Promise me to consider my offer till afternoon, and until then not to tell a livin' soul about what you've found in the well."

"Very well, Squire, I'll agree to that. Tisn't long to wait till then."

"I'll call ag'in at three," said the Squire. "Don't forget your promise."

"I won't," said the widow.

The Squire drove out of the yard, and the widow, with a smile of triumph, looked after him.

"I'm pretty sure of being Mrs. Pogram, if I work my cards right," she thought.

Meanwhile the Squire drove away in a brown study. To think that the prize for which he had sought should after all have fallen to the lot of the widow with her ten poor acres. It was certainly strange. Now how should he find his own profit in it? If he could buy the farm even at five thousand dollars, he could readily make it pay him fifty thousand. The indications were that the oil spring was a rich one. At any rate the water he drank smacked strongly enough of the oil.

But would the widow sell? That was an important question. The more time she had for thought, the higher probably would her price advance. If she consulted Norcross he might as well give it up as a lost chance, for the lawyer would be as anxious to secure it as himself. That was not to be thought of for a moment. But what if Mrs. Brown declined his offer! Was there no other way?

It was just at this moment that the other way suggested itself. He was a widower, Mrs. Brown was a widow. By marrying her he would secure the farm, and not be compelled to pay down a dollar, beyond the minister's fee for uniting them. Mrs. Brown was not exactly the woman he had intended to marry for his second wife: she certainly was not handsome, but Squire Pogram was a practical man, and he knew that she was a smart, practical woman, and would keep his household in good order. Perhaps it would not be a bad plan. At any rate he could hold it in reserve.

Punctually at three the Squire rode up to the door of the cottage.

"How about the well, widder? he asked. "Does it taste as ever?"

"Wuss and wuss, Squire. Here's some water I just drawed up."

The Squire did not need to taste it.—He could see for himself that the proportion of oil was greater than in the morning.

"Well, widder," he said, "have you decided to take the four thousand dollars I offered you? You see that will save you all trouble, and you can live comfortable the rest of your days."

"Thank you, Squire," said the widow, "but I've about made up my mind to send for some man that knows about these things, and get him to attend to it for me. I'll see Mr. Norcross first, and—"

This was enough. The Squire had made up his mind.

"Widder," said he, "I've got another plan to propose. It may seem kind of sudden to you, but I've been thinkin' of it for some time, (how long, Squire!) and that is, that I need a wife. Things is gettin' slack at home, and it needs a woman to straighten 'em out. I ain't a man of words. Widder will you become Mrs. Pogram?"

"O Squire," said the widow, "it's so unexpected that it quite flustrates me. But I'm free to say that I've always respected your character, and thought you a man that any woman might be proud to marry."

"You consent, then?"

"I do," said the widow promptly, "and I'm glad to have this new burden off my shoulders."

"Yes, widder, it ought to be attended to at once. I think we'd better marry to-morrow so as to lose no time."

"Just as you say, Squire. I'll be ready."

The next day the clergyman's services were called in requisition, and to the astonishment and anger of all the aspirants to Squire Pogram's hand the prize was carried off by the widow Brown, "who's as ugly as sin; goodness knows what he saw in her."

The day after there was another surprise. A company of workmen were seen busily engaged in sinking deeper the new Mrs. Pogram's old well, and the rumor spread that petroleum had been discovered there. But for some incomprehensible reason the first strong indications were not borne out by subsequent discoveries. The water regained all its old purity, and after sinking several hundred dollars the Squire was obliged to abandon the attempt in disgust. Mrs. Pogram, now installed in the great farm house as mistress, bore the disappointment with equanimity. She at least had got what she bargained for, and was satisfied. Whether her husband ever suspected her complicity is not clearly known. It may be confidently stated however, that any gentleman desirous of starting a Petroleum Company, may obtain the Brown farm on reasonable terms, with no extra charge for one oil well already sunk.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The Republican Electors of the city of Newport are requested to assemble at the STATE HOUSE on SATURDAY Evening, Feb. 15th, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing delegates to represent them in the Republican State Convention, to be held on the 22d inst.
HENRY D. FAY,
feb10—1w Chairman S. C. Com. for Newport Co.

ECONOMY.

Some of the members of Congress appear resolutely to set themselves at work to reduce the expenses of the government and stop the leaks in the treasury. It is a general conviction among the people that the expense of carrying on the government can be materially reduced, and that to keep it up at a figure approaching that of the war time is a palpable waste of public money and a means of intolerable oppression to the people. Yet, every movement looking to this result is met with powerful opposition, either direct or in the form of amendments; in either case, for the purpose of shielding some office-holding constituents or favoring some local scheme of expenditure. Certain sections of the country have come to depend very much upon government aid in carrying forward their plans of internal improvement and public enterprise to such an extent that scarcely a railroad is projected at the West except upon the supposition that the treasury or the property of the nation will afford a sufficient security to carry it to completion, when the local communities shall reap the benefits.

In the presence of such influences as these, enforced by an overwhelming lobby power, the members of Congress who do not yield more or less to the clamor against retrenchment are the exception rather than the rule. Something, however, has been done. The estimates for the Navy Department were cut down nearly one half below the Secretary's report, but little progress has been made in similar legislation since, except in the estimates for the army.—It is now proposed in Congress to abolish the Department of Education, as an economical measure, and a newspaper suggests the same course with regard to that of Agriculture. There appears to be nothing which the government can do for these great and important interests that requires the keeping up of a department, and that cannot be done by a bureau with a mere fraction of the expense. Thus far, the country has derived but little benefit from either of these departments, which might not have been communicated equally well from the Department of the Interior; and, so far as information or the advancement of Agriculture or Education among the people is concerned, they are vastly better served by the publications scattered over the country and devoted to these subjects severally.

Congress should recognize the fact that a large abatement of taxation is demanded. Whatever, in government, can be dispensed with should be for the purpose of meeting this demand. There is no cause to complain of the expenses of the government aside from that following from the war, as they are only twenty millions more, according to the estimate of Mr. Blaine, than during the administration of Mr. Buchanan, when they were seventy millions. Mr. Blaine estimates the expenses, independently of the war at ninety millions and for pensions and interest on the war debt two hundred and eighty-five millions; so that some considerable credit must be accorded to the Republican administration for keeping the civil list at a reasonably low figure; while the great burden of taxation arises out of a war originating with the Democratic rebels at the South, whose co-partizans at the North are now complaining so bitterly about it.

The mail train from New York, Saturday morning, ran into a horse and sleigh at the post road crossing, about a mile east of Davisville, on the Stonington railroad. The train was going at the rate of about forty miles an hour at the time. The horse was thrown a great distance and killed, and the sleigh broken into very small fragments, not a piece over two feet square remaining. There was no one in it when the collision occurred. The team had been hired the evening before of a man living near the crossing, and the horse being left unhitched went upon the track till he came to a culvert, and there stopped in the way of the train.—Prov. Herald.

In Providence, Monday, a horse run away, starting on Weybosset street, demolished the sleigh to which he was attached, leaving the remnants of that vehicle and Mr. Murby by the wayside, ran through Exchange street to Exchange place, and dashed against an express wagon, which collision resulted in the animal's turning a complete somersault and landing flat on his back in the body of the express wagon, which had to be disintegrated before its strange passenger could be set on "all fours."—Ibid.

A strange disease has broken out among the horses connected with the Abyssinian expedition. The horses and mules are taken with a sudden illness, apparently having its seat in the heart, which has proved incurable. Out of four hundred and seventy-five horses landed at Zoulla, October 25, one hundred and twenty died and forty had to be left behind. About two hundred and fifty mules had fallen victims to the disease. The natives assert that that region is mortal to the genus horse; they never bring the animal there.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.—A gentleman of this city, well known for his genial qualities and liberal sentiments, being in New York, went into a restaurant and dined.—On settling, he thought the figures on his card were too low to pay for the amount he had consumed, and said as much to the cashier; when another person standing by said, "There is a difference between wholesale and retail prices. Having eaten at wholesale, you are charged accordingly." Our neighbor was content to settle on these terms

Oliver Optic and his Books.

The Watchman and Reflector of January 23d, contained a lively sketch of this popular author and the books he has written, from which it appears that his real name is William T. Adams. It proceeds to say.

"Mr. Adams was born in Medway, Mass., July 30, 1822, and therefore is forty-five years of age. He became a school teacher at the age of twenty, and for twenty years occupied that responsible position with credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of the parents whose children were under his charge. For six years he was principal of the Boylston and Bowditch schools in Boston, and at one time had twelve hundred scholars and twenty-five teachers under his immediate supervision. But not alone in 'common schools' has he labored; for twenty years he has been a Sabbath school teacher, and seven years a superintendent. It may then be said with confidence that he should be well acquainted with the wants of the young, and with the most efficient methods of imparting instruction. Few writers have been brought so directly in contact with the rising generation, or have enjoyed such rich and varied experiences of child-life, while it is easily seen that the accumulation of incidents and events attendant upon public schools furnishes a capital for an author's use rarely possessed. It is doubtless true that Mr. Adam's books owe much of their interest and value, much of their vivid naturalness to these causes, and it is equally true that with many persons similarly situated these experience would have produced no practical results save in the daily routine of the schoolroom. His quick and keenly appreciative mind found there its full exercise, and when he entered the arena of authorship his success was certain.

His series of writings for young people began in 1854 with the first of the Boat Club series, since which he has continued to write until his volumes now amount to more than 400,000. In round numbers, but still less in each instance than the actual sale, the list is as follows:

Boat Club Series, 6 vol	sale	100,000
Woodville " 6 "	"	100,000
Army & Navy Series, 6 vols.	"	75,000
Riverdale Series, 12 volumes.	"	125,000
Young America Abroad, 3 vol. (3 out and 3 in process)	"	25,000
Starry Flag Series, 3 volumes, (3 out and 3 in process)	"	21,000

Total, 36 volumes, with a sale of 446,000

In addition to these, Mr. Adams has written a popular spelling book, two novels which have been well received by the public, and one volume of miscellaneous stories, thus making forty volumes from his prolific pen! What other writer at home or abroad can show such a record?

The American and Foreign Christian Union held a meeting in New York Sunday evening which was addressed by Rev. Drs. Hitchcock, Crosby, Scudder and John Hall, of Dublin. Two hundred thousand dollars will be needed to carry on the work of the Union the present year.

Letter from Providence.

FEB. 11, 1868.

Yesterday was a dull day in the General Assembly. As usual there was no quorum in the Senate and but a thin attendance in the House, where but little was accomplished. A resolution was introduced instructing an inquiry into the affairs of the Reform School where it is charged that glaring abuses exist. Outside the two houses certain reports exist, which if true, makes the Reform School a burning disgrace to the State of Rhode Island as well as those having the matter especially in charge. It is certainly well to investigate the matter as now proposed.

THE GENERAL TREASURER.

This morning the resolution to remove the office of the General Treasurer from Newport to Providence came up in the House for discussion. As was expected it awakened a good deal of interest. The Senate adjourned at an early hour and most of the members with Governor Burnside came into the lower house and took their seats as listeners. There was also a large attendance in the lobby as it was understood that this was the order of the day.

Mr. Weeden of Westerly, and Mr. Sheffield opened the discussion by a few sparring remarks, when Mr. Barstow of Providence, entered upon the discussion by presenting and advocating the new financial system, which it was proposed to establish. He wished the two officers, Auditor and Treasurer, to have their places of business in the same building, and to act as checks on each other. The present system was complained of as very loose, and that of the city of Providence was commended as a model which could be justly copied by the State. Mr. Barstow is an excellent speaker and evidently made an impression on the House.

Mr. Davis of Newport followed and showed that the looseness of the system did not result from the separation of the two offices, and that all needed changes could be made without affecting the question of location. He charged also that the present movement was but a part of the general system entered upon and now long continued to swallow up the State of Rhode Island by the city of Providence so that, one by one, the several towns were curtailed in their privileges and made mere dependencies of the central city. He claimed also that there was greater safety in having the two officers apart rather than in the same building where there are so many additional conveniences for collusion and fraud.

Mr. Gardiner, of Providence, and Mr. Colwell, his colleague, urged the removal on account of the greater convenience to those having business to transact at the Treasurer's office. The latter gentlemen commended the Financial system in vogue in Providence stated that it was considered "perfect" and urged the adoption of a similar plan for the safety of the State.

The House was convulsed with laughter when Mr. Sheffield brought out the fact by inquiry that the treasury of Providence had been defrauded extensively in the case of a late Treasurer, while the State had never lost a cent through a single Treasurer during the seventy-five years that the office has been held at Newport. Mr. Sheffield also made an excellent and able speech against the change, responding to Mr. Gardiner and others who had preceded him. He showed that the State Treasuryship was once located at Westerly and attributed the zeal of Mr. Weeden to the outgrowth of the ancient wrath which that town has ever nursed towards Newport her successful rival.

Judge Greene of Warwick, spoke briefly in favor of the removal, when Gen. Van Zandt took the floor and addressed the House. His speech was, in every respect a capital affair, provoking at times the mirth of the members by his happy and telling hits, and presenting arguments which remain and must remain unanswered. He described the process which has been going on for years by which Providence has been drawing all the honors and offices to itself, and expressed his gratification that the dominant power could not fully absorb our ancient city. The beech and the old stone mill he claimed were actually beyond the grasping hand even of Providence, and the gentlemen who toady to her wishes. As the speech of the General will doubtless be quite fully reported, I will not attempt to sketch it here, but simply ask its perusal as it shall appear in another column.

Mr. Weeden, made a long speech on the Providence side of the question which was listened to with attention and produced a marked effect. He is a fine speaker and the friends of the new bill did well to put its advocacy in his hands. Like Mr. Barstow who followed him, he is a good debater and commands the respect of the House.

The discussion continued to a late hour for the morning session before the vote was reached, when the proposition to require the Treasurer to keep his office in Providence was carried by a large majority. For the first time Judge White was in his seat, and gave his vote with his delegation for maintaining the ancient usage.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

It is now announced that Governor Burnside has consented to serve another year, should he receive the nomination, in his present position. This being the case there can be no question of his reelection, and so the agony as to who shall be the next Governor may be considered as about over. As to the Lieut. Governor things remain a little mixed, and probably will continue in that condition until a meeting of the convention unless the self elected guardians of the State hold another session in a certain back room very soon. I am glad to see that the Providence Evening Press agrees with the opinion expressed in my last letter to the News that such attempts to control the party are altogether out of place. Still, another meeting is to be held this week, probably a little more select that the last, to complete the slate. It is to be hoped that any and all such programmes will be thrown to the winds when the convention meets. This State Convention is to make nominations, not confirm the edicts of paltry cabals and cliques. Let the towns send up independent men who shall represent the people rather than the politicians, and matters can be easily set right

SENSATIONS.

Providence abounds just now in sensations, some of the people are excited over filling up the Cove, others are in for a drawbridge a la Chicago, across the river down towards Fox Point. A few are crowding the ticket office where seats are to be secured for Dickens' readings, which are soon to come off in this city. Others have their peculiar hobbies, and all give evidence that this is a live and growing city. May it long live and prosper as aforetime. DAN.

A TRUE BALSAM.—Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is truly a balsam. It contains the balsamic principle of the Wild Cherry, the balsamic properties of tar and of pine. Its ingredients are all balsamic. Coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and consumption speedily disappear under its balsamic influence.

PRICE ADVANCED--PAR & INTEREST!
THE Central Pacific Railroad
THE BEST AND PRINCIPAL PORTION OF THE National Trunk Line Across the Continent is being rapidly carried forward by an unprecedented working force; and it is reasonably certain that the CONTINUOUS OVERLAND RAILROAD CONNECTION FROM NEW YORK TO SAN FRANCISCO WILL BE MADE IN 1870.

The United States Government furnishes, upon a subordinate and contingent lien, half the means for constructing the Main Stem Line; and besides an absolute grant of 12,800 acres of valuable public lands per mile, the Central Pacific Railroad Company have received from California sources, donations and concessions worth more than $3,000,000. The available resources of this Company are therefore abundant for the purpose, amounting to $77,000,000 on the first 726 miles of the Line, including Loans secured by a First Mortgage upon the whole property, to the same amount only as the U. S. Subsidy Bonds.

The results already attained, although under comparatively unfavorable circumstances, afford substantial ground for believing the CENTRAL PACIFIC to be the Most Favored, Productive, and Valuable Railroad Enterprise in the Country.
In consequence of the large and rapidly increasing demand, the price of these Bonds has been advanced, and the Company are now offering for sale, a limited amount of their First Mortgage Six Per Cent. Bonds,
Principal and Interest Payable in Gold Coin, in sums of $1,000 each, at par and accrued interest from January 1st, in currency.

These Bonds, it is believed, possess the elements of safety, reliability and profit, in a greater degree, than any other class of Corporate Securities now offered, and are therefore very desirable for steady investments of surplus capital.

Investors will bear in mind the following advantages:

I. They are the first mortgage on one of the most valuable and productive lines of railroad in the world.

II. The actual earnings from local business in 1867 were more than four times the annual interest engagements.

III. The hard part of the work is now done, and the prospects of rapid completion are favorable.

IV. The Company have liberal subsidies, which enable them to prosecute the work with great vigor.

V. The management has been exceedingly prudent and frugal.

VI. There is already a large and growing settlement on the completed and graded line.

VII. The lands promise to be of immense value, 37,025 acres having been already sold.

VIII. Both principal and interest are explicitly made payable in gold coin.

IX. Both the aggregate amount of issue and their standing in Europe will insure for them continued activity and a high rank among standard securities.

At this time they yield nearly Nine per Cent. upon the Investment.
Holders of Government Securities have an opportunity of exchanging them for Central Pacific Bonds, bearing an equal rate of interest, with the principal abundantly secured, and of realizing a profit of from ten to fifteen per cent. in addition.

Orders sent with the funds through responsible Banks or Express Companies will receive prompt attention. Bonds sent by return Express, to any address in the United States, at our cost. Information, Descriptive Pamphlets, Maps, &c., furnished on application at the office of the Railroad Company,

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.
Where this article is known it is a work of supererogation to say one word in its favor, so well is it established as an unfailing remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, diseases of the throat, Chest, and Lungs, as well as that most dreaded of all diseases, Consumption, which high medical authority has pronounced to be a curable disease. Those who have used this remedy know its value; those who have not, have but to make a single trial to be satisfied that of all others it is the remedy.

A REMARKABLE CASE.
From Mr. John B. Darling, Watchmaker, Putnam, Connecticut.
"I have used Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in my family for several years, and always with the most beneficial results. My wife being of delicate habits, has always been troubled with a hard, dry, hacking cough whenever taking cold, and could obtain no relief from the various remedies she employed until she used Wistar's Balsam, the effect of which was astonishing. A year ago a young man in this place was taken with bleeding at the lungs, with a severe cough, and was given over to die by our best physicians, it being evident to all that his disease was Consumption. Upon hearing of his case my wife sent him a bottle of the Balsam, which he took, and soon, to the astonishment of his friends, he was at his accustomed occupation. In other cases we have administered the Balsam to the Consumptive, and always with the best of success. These statements are simple facts, which can be vouched for at any time by calling on me at my store."
None genuine unless signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper. Prepared by SETH W. FOWLE & SON, 18 Tremont St., Boston, and for sale by Druggists generally.

MONTHLY FAMILY JOURNAL,

FOR THE MILLION!

Thousands of families in the city and country, have long felt the want of an Illustrated Journal at a reasonable price, and equal to any on this continent.—To this end, we have engaged good artists. The literary department will be one of the features of the paper, and we shall publish from time to time, original Tales, Sketches, &c., by the leading writers of the country.

THIS IS NO LOTTERY.

But we offer as an inducement to those who subscribe, and will help to push forward to a successful issue, a cheap and valuable Illustrated Family Journal, and give a large number of premiums. Subscribers will not have to wait to know if they have a premium. There will be 2,350 premiums distributed to the subscribers. The paper will be well worth the dollar, for the year. A book has been prepared for subscribers with numbers from 1 to 100,000, and the premiums are equally distributed through the one hundred thousand numbers.

If there should be one thousand names received on the same day and date, the letters will be opened regularly as they come to hand, and marked on the book in regular rotation as opened, so that there will be a fair distribution of the premiums. We shall publish the names of the persons that are entitled to the premiums, in the NEW YORK MONTHLY ILLUSTRATED, and in the city and country papers.

The following Premiums will be distributed:

Celebrated Perfected

SPECTACLES.

Too much cannot be said as to their SUPERIORITY over the ordinary glasses worn. There is NO GLIMMERING, WAVERING OF THE SIGHT, DIZZINESS, or other unpleasant sensation, but on the contrary, from the peculiar construction of the Lenses, they are soothing and pleasant, causing a feeling of relief to the wearer, and

Producing a Clear and Distinct Vision,

As in the NATURAL HEALTHY SIGHT. They are the only Spectacles.

The ability of the members of this firm to adapt Spectacles to all Sights, even when others have failed, is too well known to need comment.

They will have with them a large assortment of Gold, Silver, and Steel SPECTACLES; also, Gold, Silver, Steel and Shell EYE GLASSES, of the finest description and finish.

The GLASSES are ground under their own supervision at their manufactory at Hartford, and persons may rest assured that every care will be taken in the judicious selection of their Spectacles.

Those needing the aid of Spectacles or suffering from WEAK or DEFECTIVE VISION should not fail to call.

THE GEORGIA AND MISSISSIPPI CASES.

WASHINGTON, February 11.

The Supreme Court has not yet pronounced an opinion on the motion to dismiss the McArdle case from want of jurisdiction.

Yesterday after the Georgia and Mississippi cases had been disposed of Judge Black filed a new bill in behalf of the State of Georgia against General's Grant, Meade, and Roger et al. It is understood that this bill seeks to avoid all the difficulties encountered in the former arguments, and raises distinctly a question of property, to wit, the Treasury of the State of Georgia. An injunction to protect this is prayed for. The time for hearing the argument is not yet determined upon.

Washington Evening News.

—o—

The proposition to create a Department of Internal Revenue, the appointments to be made by the Commissioner, is being considered by the Ways and Means Committee, and will soon be passed by Congress.

The testimony of the World's correspondent before the Reconstruction Committee developed the fact that the President had assured him that he had promised Gen. Grant to assume all responsibility for a violation of the Tenure of Office act in case of the restoration of Mr. Stanton. Gen. Grant appears before the Committee to day.

A Sub Committee on Post Roads has been appointed to consider the demands of different railroads for more compensation consequent upon being compelled to put additional cars upon their roads to accommodate the mails.

The appropriation for the Greek Mission has been stricken out of the Consular bill, but will be substituted for Ecuador when it reaches the House.

An official letter from Madrid shows a misunderstanding between Mr. Hale, United States Minister to Spain, and his Secretary of Legation, Mr. Perry, and it is said that the former will come home unless Perry is recalled.

Gen. Kilpatrick writes here that he returns to this country in May.

Another special says the sub committee will to day report to the full Reconstruction Committee, without calling Gen. Grant.—All the Cabinet have signed the endorsement of the last letter from the President to Grant.

Secretary Seward, by direction of the President, has written to Charles O'Conor and James T. Brady of New York, asking them to go to Europe and appear as counsel for the American citizens under trial for complicity in the Fenian proceedings. No answer has yet been received, but if those gentlemen do not accept the tender will be made to others.

The President's letter in reply to General Grant was read in the House this afternoon It is accompanied by the statements or letters of Messrs. Randall, Seward, McCulloch, Browning and Welles, indorsing substantially the President's account of the alleged understanding with Grant, though Mr. Seward is a little doubtful and evasive.

Gen. Grant has written a reply to this letter and it is expected that it will be made public this afternoon or to morrow.

SECURE A POLICY

—IN THE—

NORTH AMERICA LIFE INS. CO.,

I. Because it gives more Liberal Policies, than any other Company. They are all nonforfeiting and incontestible. It insures Officers of the Army and Navy, in times of peace, at the usual rates, with no increased risks in event of hostilities. It makes no extra charge on change of occupation, nor for TRAVEL or RESIDENCE, at any season of the year, in the United States or Europe

NEARLY A WORLD-WIDE POLICY.

It allows thirty days grace, on renewal payments and grants weekly compensation to those injured by public travel.

II. It is Most Secure.

It makes special deposits in the Insurance Department of the State of New York, for which the State guarantees the payment of its Policies, in case the Company should at any time fail to meet its obligation. No other Company gives the assured such security, or anything equivalent thereto. That is Best which is Most Secure.

III. It is most economical. Its ratio of claims and expenses, last year, was less than that of any other Company in the United States, which had been in operation a full year. Thus leaving in the hands of the Policy Holders the largest proportional sum for dividends.

Watches for the Million !

ARRANDALE & CO'S GREAT WATCH CLUB.

Everybody needs a good watch, and wishes to get it at the lowest possible price; a horde of swindlers knowing this have contrived various ingenious device to get people's money, and then either fail to send a watch, or send one that is worthless as a timekeeper. ARRANDALE & CO. have now perfected arrangements by which, for the small sum of $10, a good and reliable watch may be CERTAINLY obtained. They have formed a GREAT WATCH CLUB on the following plan. Certificates containing the numbers of all the watches named in our wholesale list (which is sent to all applicants) are mixed up, enclosed in envelopes, and sold for 25 cents each. Every certificate is warranted to be for a watch, and as will be seen on reference to the list, none are of less value than Ten Dollars, whilst some are worth $350. We undertake to send any watch drawn whatever may be its value for $10, and in order that every one may absolutely depend upon getting a first class timekeeper, we guarantee that every purchaser of One Dollar's worth of certificates shall receive at least one for watch No. 2?3 on our wholesale list, sent post free, which is a first-class patent lever, a handsome and reliable watch, lustering silver hunting case, and usually sold for $30. You will certainly get such a watch; and, besides, you may get a Gold Chronometer worth $250. We sell the certificates as follows: One for 25 cents; Three for 50 cents; Six for $1; and Twenty for $3. To those sending $1, we will send a handsome chain gratis. To those sending $3 we will send a Gold Chain warranted not to tarnish in 20 years. Parties getting up larger clubs will receive liberal presents, particulars of which may be learned on application. PROMINENT CHARACTERISTICS.

I.—They are Instructive.

"As purely literary works, these historical romances possess a high degree of merit. They read like genuine histories."—Catholic World.

"They are correct descriptions of the countries and the people described."—Herald.

II.—They are Entertaining.

"We regard these books as among the best and most entertaining novels of the day."—Springfield Republican.

"The reader is at once fascinated and held spellbound until the volume is completed."—Free Press.

"There is no dull chapter in it."—Utica Herald.

III.—They are Mirrors of the Times.

"No one can peruse them without conceding the author's great skill in grasping and delineating the characters which figure conspicuously in them."

"The study which enables the author to delineate so accurately the emotions and incentives to action which moved men and women of a past age must be second nothing, and Louisa Muhlbach shows in all of her works a perfection which carries the reader into the very presence of the characters represented."—Syracuse Journal.

IV.—They are Historically Correct.

"Historically correct, and as entertaining as many of the volumes of Sir Walter Scott."—Prov. Herald.

"Louisa Muhlbach must have carefully and diligently studied the secret histories of the times and countries of which she writes, and her task is done well and effectively."—Worcester Spy.

"No Historical Novelist has labored so faithfully and successfully to reproduce a complete picture of past times and events."—Utica Herald.

V.—They are Original.

"It has agreeably surprised readers to find a new writer with such constructive genius and knowledge of character as Louisa Muhlbach possesses."—Public Ledger.

"Each succeeding novel adds to Mrs. Mundt's reputation as a writer of historic fiction."—N. Y. Times.

VI.—They are full of Imagination.

"She is not only the skillful joiner, but a neat-handed artisan."—Christian Witness.

"There is seldom any straining after effect, but it is really wonderful how Madame Mundt manages to sustain and increase the interest to the end."—City Item.

"The word-painting of the authoress is much more effective than the best efforts of the engraver."—Illinois State Register.

VII.—They Contain Anecdotes of Courts.

"Scottish history offered no fresher and more romantic material to the magic working hand of Sir Walter Scott than she finds in the annals of the German courts."—Evening Gazette.

"They are not to be found anywhere in human annals, massed, such magnificent, such superabundant materials for romance, as clog the chronicles of the Prussian and Austrian courts of the 18th century.—By their dress, their manners, their modes of thought, their language, they are almost as much separated from us as if they had lived one thousand years ago."—Observer.

VIII.—They tell about Emperors, Kings, and Queens.

"We learn from her not only how Frederick William and Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, Voltaire, Rousseau, Baron Trenck, the Empress Catherine, walked and talked in their grand robes, but how they powdered their hair, flirted, and took tea."—Register.

"The choice of her subjects exhibits her genius.—She takes the time of Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, for example, and upon the background of facts which the chronicles of the periods afford, she embroiders the bright and sombre colors, the light and shade of her fiction, with the skill of a consummate artist."—The Eagle.

IX.—The Style is Interesting.

"The style of this writer for purity, perspicuity, and elegance, is something greatly to be commended. It is free from imitations, mannerisms, and tricks of every kind."—The Argus.

"The translations do justice to the vivid, piquant style of the original; and the story is full of movement and crowded with instructive and entertaining incident."—The Chicago Post.

"The interest of the book does not depend upon its characters nor its incidents, nor yet on its charming style, but in its general harmony of composition."—Day Book.

X.—Everybody is Reading them.

"Our people seem to have stopped reading French novels, and English works are complained of as dull. Miss Muhlbach precisely supplies the public want.

"The novels of Clara Mundt are being read by every one."—Times.

"Muhlbach's novels have a world-wide reputation, and are read with avidity, as fast as issued from the press."—Springfield Republican.

"They are winning a wide and deserved popularity in this country."—State Journal.

HUMPHREYS SPECIFICS, at July 15 R. J. TAYLOR'S.

Oxygenized Air,

A CURE FOR

CATARRH

AND DISEASES OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS,

Applied by

DR. C. L. BLOOD,

No. 9 Montgomery Place,

BOSTON, MASS.

—:o:—

CHRONIC CATARRH.

Why entertain this loathsome disease when relief can be obtained? We meet those every day who are suffering from Catarrh to such an extent, that the Air Passages in the head are in a partly decomposed condition,—the nose and throat filled with such a mass of corrupt matter that they are objects of disgust to themselves, and of pity to those with whom they associate.

Chronic Catarrh usually affects the head, fauces and bronchial tubes. It is invariably caused by humoral or inflammatory blood, by which the mucous membrane is made sore or inflamed, producing a copious effusion of viscid matter. If it be produced by Scrofula in the blood it is almost certain to end in Consumption, unless speedily cured, because it is impossible to entirely prevent the matter from running down the Bronchial into the air vesicles, and such is the excoriating, or scalding property of the matter, its contact with the delicate linings of the air-cells at once causes irritation, and invites the humoral properties of the blood to deposit therein Tubercles and Ulcers.

Catarrh almost always attends Consumption, and frequently leads to it.

In Oxygenized Air we have a positive cure for this disease. The remedy is taken by inhalation,—breathed directly into the lungs, and through them carried into the blood; thus as soon as the blood will carry it, it reaches all parts of the system, decomposing the impure matter in the blood and expelling it through the pores, and through the natural channels from the system. Thus you will see that the cause of the disease is removed, and the disease itself must follow.

In this extraordinary way we treat and radically cure Bronchitis and Consumption. Let no one suffering from those diseases despair of relief. If you are too far away to visit our office and see us personally, write a description of your symptoms, and forward to the address below.

Send for our circular, which gives a full description of these diseases.

Out of the many thousands of testimonials received we publish the following:

DR. C. L. BLOOD,—

DEAR SIR:—I desire to give you my testimonyl regard to the value of your scientific system of treating Catarrh and diseases of the Respiratory organs I have used your remedy, "Oxygenized Air," in my practice for the last year with complete success. I have cured the worst forms of Catarrh, and a majority of the cases of Bronchitis and Consumption in their advanced stages. I unqualifiedly pronounce "Oxygenized Air" the greatest boon ever yet conferred upon our suffering race, and hope the day is not far distant when every intelligent physician will adopt your system in the treatment of all forms of chronic affections.

Fraternally yours,
L. M. LEE, M. D.
No. 109 Westminster Street, Providence.

DR. C. L. BLOOD,—

MY DEAR SIR:—I have tested your remedy, "Oxygenized Air" in advanced stages of Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption, and the results have been, in the highest sense, satisfactory; so positive am I of its wonderful power to arrest the progress of the above named diseases, that I can conscientiously advise all who may be suffering from them to place themselves under thy treatment at once.

Respectfully yours,

Rev. R. TOMLINSON,

5,4 0 MILES

OF THE

Union Pacific Railroad,

Running West from Omaha

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

ARE NOW COMPLETED,

THE TRACK BEING LAID AND TRAINS RUNNING

Within Ten Miles of the Summit

OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

The remaining ten miles will be finished as soon as the weather permits the road-bed to be sufficiently packed to receive the rails. The work continues to be pushed forward in the rock cuttings on the western slope with unabated energy, and a much larger force will be employed during the current year than ever before. The prospect that the whole was never better. The means so far provided for construction have proved ample, and there is no lack of funds for the most vigorous prosecution of the enterprise. These means are divided into four classes:

Grand Line to the Pacific

WILL BE COMPLETED IN 1870,

1.—UNITED STATES BONDS,

Having thirty years to run, and bearing six per cent, currency interest, at the rate of $16,000 per mile for 517 miles on the Plains; then at the rate of $48,000 per mile for 150 miles through the Rocky Mountains; then at the rate of $32,000 per mile for the remaining distance, for which the United States takes a second lien as security. The interest on these Bonds is paid by the United States Government, which also pays the Company one-half the amount of its bills in money for transporting its freight, troops, mails, &c. The remaining half of these bills is placed to the Company's credit, and forms a sinking fund which may finally discharge the whole amount of this lien.

2.—FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.

By its charter the Company is permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to the same amount as the bonds issued by the Government, and no more, and only as the road progresses. The Trustees for the Bondholders, are the Hon. E. D. Morgan, U. S. Senator from New York, and the Hon. Oakes Ames, Member of the U. S. House of Representatives, who are responsible for the delivery of these Bonds to the Company in accordance with the terms of the law.

3.—THE LAND GRANT.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company has a land grant or absolute donation from the Government of 12,800 acres to the mile on the line of the road, which will not be worth less than $1.50 per acre, at the lowest valuation.

4.—THE CAPITAL STOCK.

The authorized capital of the Union Pacific Railroad Company is $100,000,000, of which $5,000,000 have been paid on the work already done.

The Means sufficient to Build the Road

Contracts for the entire work of building 914 miles of first-class railroad west from Omaha, comprising much of the most difficult mountain work, and embracing every expense except surveying, have been made with responsible parties (who have already finished over 540 miles), at the average rate of sixty-eight thousand and fifty-eight dollars (68,058) per mile. This price includes all necessary shops for construction and repairs of cars, depots, stations, and all other incidental buildings, and also locomotives, passenger, baggage, and freight cars, and other requisite rolling stock, to an amount that shall not be less than $8,000 per mile. Allowing the cost of the remaining one hundred and eighty-six of the eleven hundred miles assumed to be built by the Union Pacific Company to be $90,000 per mile,

The Total Cost of Eleven Hundred Miles will be as follows:

914 miles, at $68,058	$62,205,012
186 miles, at $90,000	16,740,000
Add discounts on bonds, surveys, &c.	4,500,0?0
Amount	$83,445,012

As the U. S. Bonds are equal to money, and the Company's own First Mortgage Bonds have a ready market, we have as the Available Cash Resources for Building Eleven Hundred Miles:

U. S. Bonds	$29,328,000
First Mortgage Bonds	29,328,000
Capital Stock paid in on the work now done,	5,500,000
Land Grant, 14,080,000 acres, at $1.50 per acre,	21,120,000
Total	$85,276,000

The Company have ample facilities for supplying any deficiency that may arise in means for construction. This may be done wholly or in part by additional subscriptions to capital stock.

EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY.

At present the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic, but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the bonds the Company can issue, if not another mile were built. It is not doubted that when the road is completed the through traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent, and, as there will be no competition, it can always be done at profitable rates.

It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is, in fact, a Government Work, built under the supervision of Government Officers, and to a large extent with Government money, and that its bonds are issued under Government direction. It is believed that no similar security is so carefully guarded, and certainly no other is based upon a larger or more valuable property. The Company's

ARE NOW OFFERED AT PAR. They pay

Six per Cent. in Gold,

And have thirty years to run before maturity.

Subscriptions will be received in Newport by NATIONAL EXCHANGE BANK, and in New York at the Company's Office, No. 20 Nassau street, and by and by the Company's advertised Agents throughout the United States. Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the bonds will be sent free of charge by return express.

Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP, showing the Progress of the Work, Resources for Construction, and Value of Bonds, may be obtained at the Company's Offices or of its advertised Agents, or will be sent free on application.
